WE have considerably enlarged THE DAILY OTHO Bratesman, and new print it on place an handsome new type, and clear white paper.

In Politics, THE OHIO STATESMAN is, in War a Peace, for the Country, for the Constitution, and Union of equal States, with equal privileges, and with equal and exact justice to all its citizens. We ere for the Old Flag, with not a Star or Stripe erased and the Old Union as far as it is possible to restore it sed for the existing Constitution, in its spirit, letter nd purpose.

Upon the coming events of the year, rest the hopes of the People and Government. We are in the midst of a bloody and protracted civil war. Its duration and close depend upon a wise:, truer and more patric Policy than we have seen during the present Administration. We owe it to the memory of our Fath s, and to the hopes of our Children, to the future of sur Country, and to the best interest of markind, to shange a Policy which is drifting us farther and farher from the landmarks of our patriotic sires.

THE STATESMAN will do all it can to aid in bringing about this change; and hence, the Publishers in vite support and encouragement from all those who while wishing for a good NEWSPAPER, also wish to have a sound Constitutional journal.

We publish a paper in which we seek to give the CRUTH. Our Commercial Reports, our Markets, our Political and General News, are carefully freed from the ensational character, and we seek to make THE STATESMAN trustworthy in every particular. For News, for Instruction, for Good Morals, for Sound Political Sentiments, for a Steady Defense of American Institutions, Take, Read and help to Cirsulate, THE OHIO STATESMAN. WEEKLY OHIO STATESMAN is one of the argest, cheapest, and best printed Papers in the West. Each number contains a complete resume of Il the Military and Political news of the week; the atest telegraphic and market reports; a carefully prepared collection of literary reading for the home and family; and an abundance of paragraphs upon every topic of interest or importance. The wide circulation already obtained by this paper, is an evidence of its popularity, and of its being adapted to the wants of the people.

Talk w tha Rebel Woman. From the Correspondence N. Y. Evening Post. We made the circuit of the corner as d found the Major, a handsome, polite gentle-man, by the way, who was seated near some ladies, in the midst of a collection of baskets and household goods. We were presented to the ladies, when the two officers atepped aside for the discussion of the business which brought them together, leaving your correspondent to attempt the some-what difficultt ask of entertaining persons who had evidently been just ejected from their homes in Atlanta. Of course the conversation turned upon the war and upon the order of expatriation of Gen. Sherman. The youngest lady of re-finement, remarked: "It is very hard to be obliged to leave our home. We have not felt the war before, except in the cost of luxuries of life. We did not believe that your army would ever penetrate so far South, but I suppose our removal is one of the necessities of the situation, and we would much rather give up our homes than live near the Yankees. We will get far enough away this time. A sentiment of commisseration filled my heart, and ventured the remark : "May I ask where you intend to go?" "To Augusta, where your army can't come." "I would not be sure of that," I replied. "It is a long way from Nashville to Atlanta and we are here."

"O, yes"—with infinite scorn—"you will

'flank' us. I suppose?"
"Possibly, Madame." "Look here, Sir; there are not two nations on the face of this earth whose language, customs and histories are different, and who are geographically separated as wide as the but what are dearer to each other than the North and South. There are no two peoples in the world that hate each

"I hardly think there is the difference you describe, Miss. It seems to me just as you and I were Americans, with no vital points of difference between us which may not be settled some day. And then, I protest against the idea that we hate you. understand public feeling at the North pretty well, and such a sentiment does not exist there generally."

"Well. Sir, we hate you; we will never live with y u again. If you whip us, and any of these mean politicians in the South (and there are thousands of them who will be only too glad to do it) offer terms of rebe only too glad to do it) offer terms of reconstruction, we will throw ourselves into the arms of France, which only waits the chance to embrace us." "Reconstruction will undoubtedly come about in time, Miss. But we shall not permit France or any other foreign power to interfere. France would embrace you without doubt, if she gets a chance, but it will be the hug of an anaconda, who will swallow you whole, without mastication. "Anything rather than become subject to the North. We will not submit to that deg-"If you are defeated you will; and then you will have thoroughly learned what your people have never before the war in the slightest degree understood—how to re-spect us. I assure you friendship follows very close upon the heel of mutual respect."

"There is much truth in that, Sir, and we are willing to confess that we never even believed the North would fight; and while there is a certain feeling of respect which has been forced upon us. We hate you all the more now, because we despised you
